

Lead Facilitator

Bobbi Kahler

Diagnosed at the age of six by a speech pathologist as having catastrophic speech problems "from which she would suffer a life-long disability," Bobbi did overcome these challenges. Her experience achieving success in the face of credible but discouraging advice led Bobbi to dedicate her life to understanding the ways hidden potential can be uncovered, stimulated, and grown into high-powered performance. Her beliefs about leadership are simple, yet powerful: 1) Everyone has greatness inside of them; 2) Great leaders work to unleash that greatness; and 3) Everyone can be a leader.

Bobbi and her husband, Rick, operate the Kahler Leadership Group, a consulting firm dedicated to helping leaders and managers convert the hidden potential of their employees into high-powered performance. Bobbi has been developing people as a manager, trainer, speaker, and business consultant for more than 20 years. Her experience and studies culminated in a master's degree in Positive Organizational Development & Change from Case Western Reserve University, where she studied with many of the world's experts in human development, leadership, and organizational performance. Her core expertise is turning the science of human performance into practical, effective approaches that leaders can use to develop potential and achieve results. Bobbi is a contributing author to Masters of Success and Conversations on Customer Service and Sales. Her latest book, Travels of the Heart: Developing Your Inner Leader, helps individuals learn and practice core skills for developing the character of a leader.

She lives in Vail, Colorado with her husband and five cats, and in her spare time she enjoys hiking, biking, and Frisbee golf.
